

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

May 27, 2004

V CORPS INTELLIGENCE OFFICER RECEIVES EUROPEAN COMMAND AWARD FOR SUPPORT DURING OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM

Col. David J. Payne, the U.S. Army Europe deputy chief of staff for intelligence (left), presents the 2003 European Command Forsman Award for Excellence in Intelligence to Maj. Laura A. Potter. Potter is the Deputy commanding Officer of V Corps' 205th Military Intelligence Brigade and the former Operations Officer of the 302nd Military Intelligence Battalion. She received the award in recognition of her superior work providing timely and accurate warning, situational and target development intelligence to V Corps, Coalition Forces Land Component Command, U.S. Central Command and senior national leaders in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. (Photo by Maj. William Thurmond)

